

Information for Universities, Libraries and Other Institutions

In line with our fundamental mission of using 21st century digital technology to restore and disseminate cultural content, Digital Meme actively seeks to establish partnerships with universities, libraries and other institutions and foundations interested in using our content. Our films and other content are available for purchase on DVD for individual home use and inclusion in library collections, as well as with separate licenses granting permission to rent and screen our content. We also create customized content packages so that institutions can select the specific content and language options best suited for their membership and readership. Programs of specific length can also be created for institutions looking to fill specific programming needs.

Contact a Digital Meme sales representative for more information (info@digital-meme.com).

Japanese Anime Classic Collection for Institutional Users

■ Home Use Agreement: 12,800 yen (plus tax) or US$128

The standard purchase price of 12,800 yen (plus tax) or US$128 allows individuals and institutions to view the content included in the four DVD discs, to list the collection in their archives and to allow individual users to view the content on a computer or other AV format. Rental of the content and screening in a public format are not allowed under the home use agreement.

■ Rental Use Agreement: 50,000 yen (plus tax) or US$500

Institutions desiring to allow their members and affiliated persons the right to rent the collection and take it out of their libraries should purchase a rental use license. This license grants an educational institution the right to loan the collection to their members under their standard book, CD, DVD rental agreement.

■ Institutional Screening Rights Agreement: 100,000 yen (plus tax) or US$1000

Institutions that would like to screen the content to a public audience within their premises, or at an affiliate, on a non-commercial basis (in principle entry should be free of charge) should purchase the collection with a screening rights agreement.

■ Multiple Use, Multiple Location License Agreements

Educational and other institutions and foundations interested in purchasing multiple copies of the collection with the rights to screen in multiple and non-designated locations should contact a Digital Meme sales representative to discuss the appropriate licensing agreement.

■ Long-term User Discounts

Discounts are available for repeat orders from educational institutions. For more information please contact a Digital Meme sales representative.
